

Working with Nathan was cool, he seems chill and he also, like me and Andrie doesn't talk much but when we did talk I realized he's actually pretty funny. He finished around the same time as us and it didn't take our group long at all to brainstorm ideas, Nathan said horror. We went over a few movies. I said I know games better and in about 2 minutes the conversation was done. He works pretty fast, doesn't stress out and gets the assignment done on time. Like I said previously with Andrie, the only thing I would change about this group is talking more between ourselves because we all have that kinda antisocial awkwardness but other than that things went great. I enjoyed working with Nathan and I would do it again for sure.
